What does the Data Platform contain?

- Historical Materials of Second Sino-Japanese War and the modern Sino-Japanese relationship is only part of what the Data Platform contains;
- the Platform is also aimed at incorporating historical source materials on China from the late nineteenth century to 1949. Early in the process of initiating the program, We've agreed that it would be too narrowly thematic for the Platform to only gather Wartime materials.

- The currently available news include both major newspaper and local papers. The four most modern China, the Shen Pao (公報), the Social Welfare Times, and the Republican Daily News (民國日報).
- Apart from that, the collection also includes newspapers based in smaller cities.

- The Data Platform has 1700 periodicals comprehensively
